WHO WE ARE

The Texas Structural Steel Institute is a non-profit organization of Texas structural steel fabricators along with suppliers and service industries that support the steel business. TSSI had its start in 1928. Since then, many people and companies have joined the world of steel fabrication. From start-up companies to mature giants of this industry, all of the members have benefited by their association with TSSI.

Our goal is to promote the design and use of fabricated structural steel for buildings, bridges and industrial facilities. TSSI's membership roster includes businesses that fabricate structural, erectors, material suppliers, steel mills, equipment suppliers, and detailing firms. TSSI provides its members with a variety of resources with it's relationship with the American Institute of Steel Construction.

BENEFITS

Texas Structural Steel Institute encourages the continuing development of the steel industry in Texas by the exchange of information among its members by networking and sharing. TSSI keeps its members informed through guest speakers, seminars, publications, personal contacts, surveys, legislative activities, material and mill briefings, and facility tours. The quarterly meetings provide an opportunity to network with people that are the decision-makers having similar experiences and interests.
